To Whom It May Concern:

The Australasian College of Health Sciences has officially changed its name to the American College of Healthcare Sciences effective May 1, 2009. The name change is to celebrate the College's 20th anniversary of operations in the United States and better represents the College's long-term goals as an Institute of Higher Learning in the U.S.

ACHS, now operating as the American College of Healthcare Sciences, will continue to offer the same high-quality education in complementary alternative medicine and remains a Distance Education Training Council (DETC) accredited college, recognized by the U.S. Department of Education and the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA). ACHS also retains its approval by the Oregon Office of Degree Authorization.

Sincerely,

Dorene Petersen
ACHS President
